

A telephone in a home should be used for personal business. I am paying for an unlisted number, call block and caller ID to try and curb the annoying phone calls that I once received. I understand, they have to make a living also, however, nothing is more annoying than to be awakened by a telephone solicitor or a meal interrupted by a solicitor. If I am interested in purchasing an item, I will do so by my own means. I want to save what little there is of my privacy and keep the DO NOT CALL list in effect.
